READ ALL ABOUT IT!

The Small Press Network (SPN) has been representing and promoting Australia's small and independent book publishers since 2006, and we've been producing this catalogue every Christmas season since 2017.

From a small start, SPN now has over 220 members, ranging from tiny one-person, one-book self-publishers to some very well established names you'll find on the shelves of every good bookshop.

Despite the extraordinary times, Australia's smaller publishers continue to produce a vast range of world-class books.

In the following 70 pages you will find over 270 fresh reads from more than 30 different publishers, across adult fiction, broad nonfiction categories and kids/YA.

Whether you're a bookseller, librarian or reader you're sure to find some fabulous titles in here you might not come across otherwise. Enjoy!

Hometown Haunts: #LoveOzYA Horror Tales Edited by Poppy Nwosu

This startling collection of YA horror stories brings together some of Australia's finest YA authors with rising stars, and two graphic storytellers. Contributors include Wai Chim, Sarah Epstein, Alison Evans, Lisa Fuller, Margot McGovern, Poppy Nwosu, Holden Sheppard, Jared Thomas, and Vikki Wakefield.

Cars We Used to Drive: Australians on the move, 1940s to 1960s Don Loffler

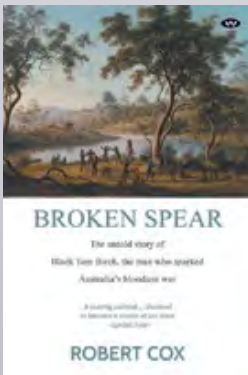

In this gorgeously illustrated trip down memory lane, much-loved Holden historian Don Loffler reveals his lifelong interest in all kinds of cars on Australian roads, bringing together hundreds of photographs from the years 1946 to 1966. A treat for fans of nostalgia, as well as car-lovers!

Sincerely, Ethel Malley Stephen Orr

This extraordinary novel imagines Ethel Malley (sister of Ern) into vivid, dryly hilarious life.

'Stephen Orr is a beautiful craftsman, patiently unfolding a range of ways of looking at an intoxicatingly complex story ... ironic and compassionate.' – Michael McGirr, The Age / Sydney Morning Herald

Broken Spear: The untold story of Black Tom Birch, the man who sparked Australia's bloodiest war Robert Cox

Robert Cox unearths the epic truth about charismatic Tasmanian Aboriginal patriot Black Tom Birch and his unending fight against invasion. It is a heroic story – and a tragedy of Shakespearean proportions.

'Cox writes with flair and elegance and is a born storyteller.' – Henry Reynolds

WITHOUT WARNING

Jed Hart

Book One in The Jake Hunt Series.

Jake Hunt has finished with war, but when he travels to Brunei a routine assignment is fragmented. Terrorists attack the sultanate, seeking power and revenge.

Working alongside Jake, Nicole Roswell realises that the thoughtful man she knows is also an incorrigible risk-taker, whose actions challenge her ideas of right and wrong.

As the terrorists escalate their violent campaign, those involved must act to protect themselves and the ones they love.

Jake Hunt wants the same as most men, a good woman, interesting work, a home, and children. But Jake is not every man. As an aviation adviser for a global oil company, he no longer has any business with terrorists, but they have business with him. A kidnap, an insurgent attack, and an abduction, and Jake finds himself back at war.

‘Jed is a very gifted writer ... Without Warning is simple, clean, and to the point, giving the reader a look inside the character’s soul ...’ —Luciano Saber

‘Without Warning, the first book in The Jake Hunt Series, exerts a magnetic force that pulls you into the characters’ minds and their diverse worlds ...’
—Queenscliffe Herald

‘Few are as well-qualified to write an action-adventure novel as Jed Hart. Not only has he lived an extraordinary life, but Hart is also a gifted storyteller ...’
—Surf Coast Times

'Caught in the Act is a fun, highly readable memoir that is sure to delight fans both old and new'

BOOKS+PUBLISHING

'Shockingly honest, raunchy, funny and moving, and a hugely surprising education for me.'

DANNII MINOGUE

'Glorious, heartfelt, passionate and inspirational – a glamorous frock-filled adventure that explores the full fluidity of Shane's boundless bravery, love and humanity.'

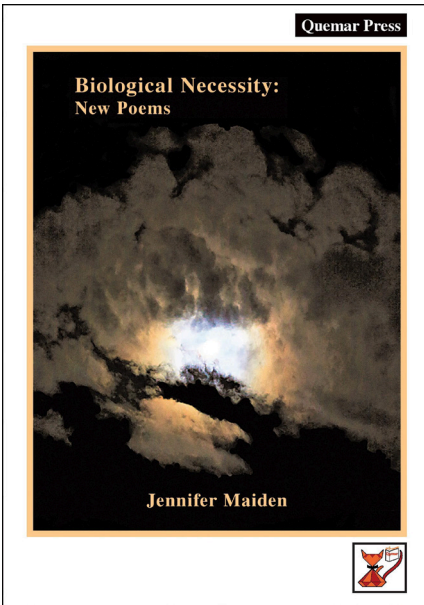

OSHER GÜNSBERG

'Chock-full of hilarity, honesty and wisdom, this is a classic tale of a search for identity – with masking tape, Spice Girls and RuPaul.'

BIOLOGICAL NECESSITY: NEW POEMS

Jennifer Maiden

This new poetry collection reflects Aneurin Bevan's 'Socialism is a biological necessity', but, here, socialism branches out to be the human condition itself, or survival's impulse. Here, necessity can re-appropriate elegies; keep incarnation of the beloved close, never fearing or etherealising; Elizabeth Macquarie discusses power-abuse with President Trump's mother watching Sydney Harbour fireworks; Maiden and her daughter watch meteors in Covid lockdown; writing has function like a new vaccine; Ghislaine Maxwell wears safe paper prison clothes; Gore Vidal watches over Julian Assange; symbols of pandemic and symbols of empire are similar; Maiden's female protagonist, Clare, mirrored in a Darling Harbour hotel window, thinks of Syria, Kurds, oil and Russia with George her partner; Vidal watches Assange's trial; Maiden's ancestor in India names his new family after his first children and wife who died in a typhoon; maize is offered, not human sacrifice; in continuing glitter a river freezes in a dream; Nasca Lines in Peru let Carina—hero created by Carina Galaxy—rescue Andean mountain cats; Abbie Hoffman has unfading impact; Trump skypes with Human Rights observers Clare and George, 2020 election night; mercenary firm 'black water' is reinvented as lyric; Eleanor Roosevelt is suspended in no place, unable to revisit her faith in her own Hillary Clinton; La Niña—pacific, lit by lanterns, counteracts forests on fire. Throughout, biological necessity is not only something physical, psychological or spiritual—it is empathetic, practical discourse in lyricism and humanity between poet and reader.

EX LIBRIS

Simon Groth

Longlisted for the 69th Australian Book Design Awards 2021.

Twelve of the chapters in this book are arranged at random, each new copy shuffled anew, one of 479 million possible variations. No two copies of Ex Libris are identical, and yet all tell the same story.

The metropole is a world of data-driven design and added market saturation. It's a place where every decision, every movement is tracked and interpreted by the network to curate content for the comfort and containment of its citizens, where imagination and fiction are suppressed, and where books have been abandoned in favour of instant gratification.

Against this backdrop, a loose gathering of subversives collects the scraps of texts left behind. Calling themselves free readers, they seek to reconstruct a library from fragments away from the watchful eye of the feared committee for public safety. But what begins as the story of four people drawn to a band of literary misfits becomes an epic quest for truth in a world of lies and a narrative conscious of its own fictions.

‘A remarkable technical achievement and a page-turning novel that celebrates the transformative power of reading.’

—Ryan O’Neill

TANK WATER

Michael Burge

James Brandt didn't look back when he got away from his rural hometown as a teenager. Now he has returned to Kippen for the first time in twenty years because his cousin Tony has been found dead under the local bridge.

The news that Tony has left him the entire family farm triggers James's journalistic curiosity—and his anxiety—both of which cropped up during his turbulent journey to adulthood. But it is the unexpected homophobic attack he survives that draws James into a hunt for the reasons one lonely Kippen farm boy in every generation kills himself.

Standing in the way is James's father, the town's recently retired top cop, who is not prepared to investigate crimes no-one reckons have taken place. James must use every newshound's trick he ever learned in order to uncover the brutal truth.

A coming-of-age story and crime thriller with a large and gentle heart.

ANDAL'S GARLAND

Helen Burns

In eighth-century India, Andal lives in a world where girls are married by fourteen. Defying the mores of her time, she refuses marriage to a mortal man—only a god will do. Andal's imagination is boundless and her antics set the town's tongues wagging. As Andal becomes absorbed by her visions, she composes songs to her divine lover.

Saisha discovers Andal's songs in a book on a trip to India with her partner Marcus. The verses are confronting and unearth memories Saisha thought were long ago buried. Not only is she unable to conceive, for the past two decades Marcus has chosen celibacy. What defines her as a woman when these two primal desires remain unfulfilled?

UNCHARTED

Janet Howle

Carter McDowell is a broken man. Guilt and grief haunt him as he struggles to keep the only thing he has left, his sailboat Wind Chase. Kat Deano, a feisty investigative reporter, is in the Bahamas to probe the mysterious disappearance of her twin brother.

Thrown together when Carter fishes Kat from the sea at night far from land, their lives become increasingly entangled as they face the forces of nature and threats from unexpected sources. Their uncharted voyage propels them from the office of the Bahamian prime minister to the remote island of Andros as they stumble onto a horrific plot that threatens both the US and the Bahamas.

SECRETS AND SHOWGIRLS

Catherine McCullagh

Monsieur Maurice is the natty manager of Le Prix d'Amour, one of the most successful cabarets in 1930s Paris. Like its compatriots, the Moulin Rouge and the Folies Bergère, its sparkling showgirls and vibrant performers ensure that Le Prix has a devoted following and that Monsieur Le Prix's owner is a very rich man. But the winds of war blow through the gilded doors of Le Prix and, with the German invasion of 1940, Monsieur Maurice realises that he has a problem. He discovers that a number of his performers hide dark secrets that would almost certainly see the entire company tossed into a Gestapo cell. With his ingenuity taxed to its limits, Maurice treads a fine line between his patron the German Military Governor, the French police and the resident informer, while dabbling in the black market and skimming profits from the Germans at every opportunity. Secrets and Showgirls presents the occupation of Paris from a vastly different perspective.

THE POETICS OF A PLAGUE, A HAIKU DIARY: THE 2020-2021 COVID-19 PANDEMIC

Sandy Jeffs

What was it like to live in Melbourne during the 2020–2021 lockdowns? Capturing the day-to-day struggles of lockdown, the daily news, Dan Andrews' 11am morning press conferences, the tensions between Victorians and the rest of Australia, Trump's chaotic America, the conspiracy theories that circulated and battling her own mental health, Sandy Jeffs takes us through the whirlwind of events in imaginative haiku poems. These became her sanity while the world spiralled into madness.

Each day brings news that creates despair or joy: the pandemic numbers and the voting numbers side by side. And as the world is in the grip of COVID madness, sanity is found in poetry. Inspirational, funny and poignant, these stories will stay with you long after you've read the last page.

BLOOD-SOAKED SOIL

Mario Bekes

Imagine yourself in my shoes. Imagine being 18 years old, and in just 24 hours the world you knew stopped existing.

Imagine being a teenager and learning all these skills that were designed for one purpose—to kill others.

Growing up in Communist Croatia (then part of Yugoslavia), Mario Bekes witnessed a lot of social unrest—before finding himself in the middle of the Croatian War of Independence.

Mario's world quickly turned upside down. One morning he woke to a knock at the door. His family and his girlfriend were gone. His neighbours were packing, fleeing the city. And the military were at his door, saying, "Report at the army barracks in one hour." Minutes later, the city was being shelled—and Mario was off to fight in a war he'd never chosen.

Over the next few years he'd experience the horrors of war first hand—witnessing sheer destruction, death, suffering and broken hearts right in front of him.

This is his story.

FIRE TO FORK

Harry Fisher

From the fire to a fork. It's a simple premise that's exceptionally popular as Australia opens up to domestic travel and where camping, caravanning and 4WDing will be the holiday of choice for millions of Australians who can only travel domestically.

From the pindan red beaches of the Kimberley's west coast to the karri forests of southern Western Australia, Harry Fisher has cemented his reputation with a pair of tongs around the campfire. Combining his passion for the Aussie bush and great food, he's made it his mission to prove that camp cooking doesn't have to be dull cooking. Harry's campfire cooking and distinct approach to recipe creation are encapsulated by his personal brand—Fire to Fork. His meals are simple enough for any enthusiastic bush cook to prepare, but his focus on fewer but higher quality ingredients, and techniques he's learned from his mother, a chef, sets him apart in the camp cooking world. Fire to Fork has amassed millions of views on YouTube and tens of thousands of followers across the globe. As a result, Harry is the most popular authority on bush cooking, not just in Australia, but everywhere good food and campfires are combined.

SHOOTING THROUGH: CAMPO 106 ESCAPED POWs AFTER THE ITALIAN ARMISTICE

Katrina Kittel

In September 1943, Italy capitulated to the Allies. Seizing the moment, Australian and New Zealander prisoners of war walked out of Italian farms located between Turin and Milan.

Escape, for most, was easy. What came next, the evasion phase of their war—weeks and months on the loose, foot-slogging to the frontier, identifying friend from foe, scraping up a feed, weighing up needs for shelter and the dangers for Italian helpers, discovering the breadth of Italian Resistance—was in all likelihood more taxing on POWs' resilience than the longer periods spent within prison camps.

Drawing on first-hand accounts and archival records, historian Katrina Kittel weaves stories of ANZAC escaper groups through time and theme to reveal their key evasion routes and representative outcomes.

‘From Alamein to the Alps, this book tells a tale of captivity, survival and escape, shining a light on the oft-neglected experiences of Australian POWs in Italy’ —Dr Lachlan Grant, Australian War Memorial

‘Its strength lies not in emotion, but in presenting a window into the soul and decision-making of the POWs in their relationships with themselves, authorities and the Italian populace ... I rate this as the best account of overall POW experience that I have read’ —Major (Retired) Warren Farmer

‘Thoroughly researched and beautifully written, Kittel explores the ANZAC narrative from a fresh perspective. Insightful and compelling, Kittel’s account eschews glorification and instead illuminates the experiences of ordinary men in extraordinary circumstances’ —Michelle Scott Tucker, Elizabeth Macarthur: a life at the edge of the world

MEETING EACH OTHER ALIVE: FROM LETTERS BETWEEN MANUELA SÁENZ AND SIMÓN BOLÍVAR

Katharine Margot Toohey

Manuela Sáenz and Simón Bolívar were, at once, distinguished leaders of the nineteenth-century South American Revolution, and devoted to each other with that same intensity in thought, action. They are subjects of legends and inventions. In reality, Sáenz was born in Quito, 1797. She joined covert political operations against Peru's Viceroy, and met Bolívar as he officially took over Peru's liberation. He eventually became President of the South American states of Grand Colombia. Sáenz and Bolívar met often as the revolutionary campaigns travelled South America. They exchanged love letters, practical military advice, and advice about practical survival. In 1823, as General, he wished her to join his military staff. She became his archivist and Captain of Hussars, journeying with him and the armies. This selection extends over love letters they exchanged and letters they wrote others about their attachment. Quemar's creative Modern English translations attempt to reflect their writing's flow, intricacy, vividness. Her voice and his echo back and forth their hope to reunite. This work strives to offer new authentic access to their voices.

After Bolívar's death, Sáenz survived exile, living in Paita, on the northern Peruvian coast. She gave her correspondence with Bolívar to his General O'Leary, who was writing a biography. With her long career as his archivist, Captain of Hussars and, ultimately, Colonel, she knew the importance of word and action. As a revolutionary, she knew the importance of incorruptible voices in history.

SOCIAL JUSTICE IS FOR EVERYONE

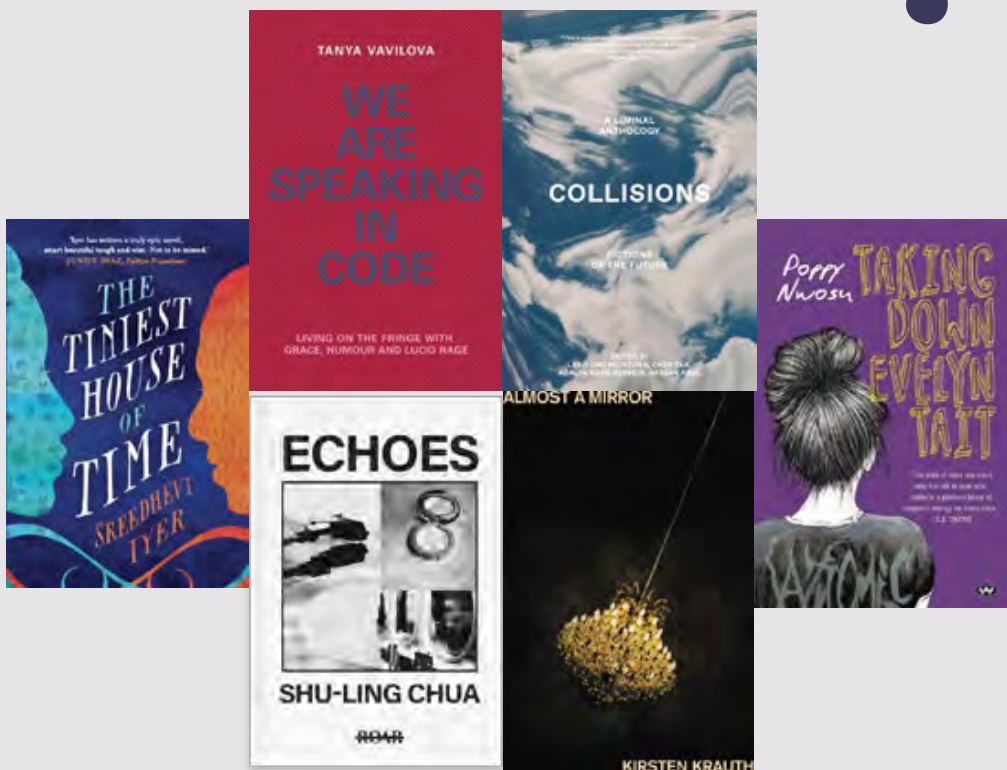

Joan Beckwith

Social Justice Is for Everyone invites you to join a conversation. This book opens up topics of racism, gender and sexuality, disability and refugee policy, abuse of workers, care of children and older people, death and euthanasia, health and mental health, economic inequality, and access to education.

Clear and engaging, Social Justice Is for Everyone deals with complex issues in an accessible way. Joan Beckwith writes with empathy and feeling, raising questions rather than claiming to have ready solutions. Her insightful discussion is woven through with feminist theory, critical social theory, and examinations of power relations.

Beckwith draws on a lifetime of experience, as a retired psychologist with an enduring commitment to social justice, to craft a book for everyone. This collection of essays holds out a hand to the seasoned activist, the newly interested, and everyone in between.

THE WOMEN'S POOL

Lynne Spender

In this anthology, writers from diverse cultures reveal the role the Women's Pool has played in their lives. The history of McIver's Ladies Baths in Coogee—affectionately known as the Women's Pool—is eloquently told in these stories by women who have found friendship, sanctuary and simple pleasure as they have gathered and swum there. Humorous tales of encounters at the pool sit alongside stories of sorrow and regret. There are recollections of the famed 'Thursday Married Ladies Club' and accounts of delight at the natural beauty, safety and freedom that Australia's only ocean pool reserved for women offers.

OUR SCHOOL IN PAVLYSH: A HOLISTIC APPROACH TO EDUCATION

Vasily Sukhomlinsky

Our School in Pavlysh is an inspiring account of the holistic system of education developed at Sukhomlinsky's combined primary and secondary school in the Ukrainian village of Pavlysh during the 1950s and 1960s. Raising his school from the ashes of World War Two, Sukhomlinsky created a system of education that was deeply embedded in the natural environment and that fostered the qualities of curiosity, empathy and creativity. Students enrolling in Sukhomlinsky's school became part of a vibrant learning community in which teachers, parents, community members, and the students themselves all played a role in educating each other.

THE ORACLE OF THE INNOCENT HEART

Scott Alexander King

The Oracle of the Innocent Heart is about simple things; the simple things a child will ponder and question for hours, but that an adult may consider for a second and then dismiss as unimportant or trivial. It is an Oracle that asks the adult mind to journey within to seek the advice and solace of the inner child. It asks the mental, relentlessly processing adult mind to be still, to be silent, kind, and peaceful like that of a child's. To be gentle, to remember, to dream and to listen again to stories that encourage the stagnant mind to wake up, to dare and to wonder.

NENEK TATA AND THE MANGROVE MENACE

Judith Vun Price and Jacqui Vun

Nenek Tata is preparing for a normal day, gathering water, feeding her animals and checking the crab traps in the mangrove swamp before the first storm of the monsoon arrives. But it turns out to be a not-so-normal day, for when she gets inside the gloomy jungles of the swamp, she is confronted by a huge, dripping, brown monster. And, when the monster follows her, she is forced to defend her home to the last ...

Set in Malaysia's eastern-most state of Sabah, this delightful spooky story is typical of stories told to young children by grandparents to entertain them before bedtime, and to keep them safe from the dangers of the swamps and jungles.

Through the book's 35 dynamic full-colour illustrations, the tranquil rural coastal landscape is transformed as the drama unfolds and a storm erupts to draw the reader deep into the mystery. The beauty of the shapes and colours of native vegetation and animals are artfully captured in a wonderland of storytelling that merges cultures for children and adults interested in distant places. The fine attention to detail gives readers hours of enjoyment in a wild and rollicking adventure that will keep young readers at the edge of the knees they're sitting on.

Judith Vun Price and Jacqui Vun are sisters who emigrated as children to Australia in 1974. They are artists, designers and artisans whose love of visual storytelling is clearly evident in how they collaborate to produce exceptional work.

SHADOWS OF SYLVAHEIM

Toula Gordillo

Sixteen-year-old Jack thinks he's a failure. Living with aches and nausea, hearing voices and disconnected from his friends, he wonders if crystal meth might take the pain away. But when his mother ends up in a coma, and his father can't cope, Jack runs from home with his younger sister Emily.

As the siblings shelter from a violent storm, Goddess Freyja appears. She says they must travel to the realm of Sylvaheim to defeat the malevolent Lord Batu Glass and his partner Morgana. Growing in power, they now threaten all the realms.

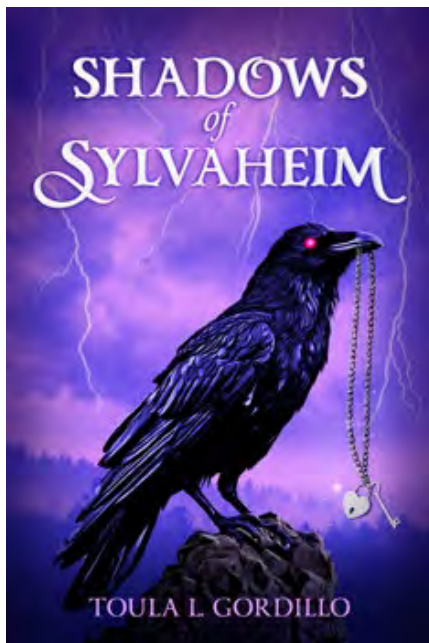

But the ultimate challenge lies within: Can Jack and Emily conquer their deepest fears to stop druglord Batu Glass and his henchmen, the traitorous ravens, before Jack's soul is lost too?

Shadows of Sylvaheim is not just a coming-of-age mythic fantasy novel, it also acts as a Jungian guide to life.

It is a worthy undertaking to introduce young people to Jungian psychology and I applaud Toula's efforts and dedication. I wish her great success!' —Dr Murray Stein, Jungian analyst, author, lecturer

Dr Gordillo has created an exceptional teaching and learning tool. Shadows of Sylvaheim cleverly combines fantasy, mythology, spirituality, philosophy and meaning-making for modern youth' —Professor Maria Raciti, Adjunct Fellow, Professor of Marketing and Director of Indigenous and Transcultural Research Centre, University of the Sunshine Coast

Toula's is a novel approach to improving the psychological health of young people' —Dr Paul Williams, Senior lecturer and award-winning author

THE LANTERNIST

Stephen Orr

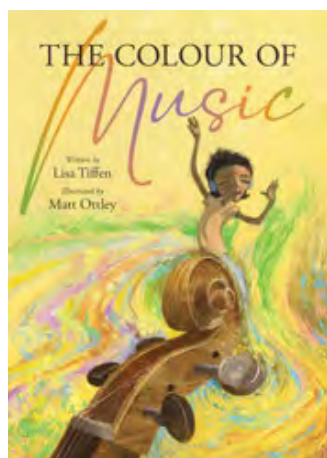

1901. The slide clunks into the lantern, and Phantoms come alive on the wall. The father-son Magic Lantern team of Bert and Tom Eliot are masters of the Art of the Story. The only problem is that they are missing a wife and mother. Then one morning eleven-year-old Tom wakes to find his father missing, too.

The Lanternist's apprentice is thrown out of home, forced to work for the arch-criminal Jimmy Sacks, arrested and imprisoned. Will he ever be able to escape with his new friend Max and make the long, flea-bitten, rat-infested journey to Sydney in search of his parents?

The Lanternist is a story about stories, and how they show us a way through life, despite the callous landladies, corrupt officials, criminal companions and the problems with living in incinerators. But mostly, it is about searching, and making your own endings.

Courtney Johnston

A real-life rusty tractor helps kids take a fresh look at Australian farm life. The city and the bush combine to bring to life the delightful story of 'Rusty the tractor who never gives up'.

First-time author from rural Queensland, Courtney Johnston, teams up with illustrator Elyssa Hallett from inner-city Sydney in this rhythmic story of a fun day's work on the farm.

As Rusty counts his tasks for the day, never giving up along the way, we see glimpses of farm life and native animals, finishing with a restful goodnight, and some extra activities, in a colourful book ideal for younger children.

STAR

Artelle Lenthall

Star is small, doesn't twinkle as a star should and is never gazed upon in delight by anyone! Yet Star is brave and hopeful and resilient. Helped by an angel, Star learns self-belief, patience and trust. One night Star discovers something even more important—love. Through Star's love and compassion for the young woman so close to giving birth, Star finally realises the real reason for its existence; lighting the way; which is more difficult and more beautiful than Star could ever have imagined.

THE GLINT OF GOLD

Kate McGann

It's there every day if you look for it. The glint of gold. It's in the white blossom of our plum tree against a blue sky. Or the sparkles Jack Frost leaves on the drive to school ... A heart-warming story to inspire awareness, gratitude and positive thinking.

HO HO HO!

Kathy Creamer

Set in a traditional snow-filled landscape, Santa Claus and his reindeer are on their magical Christmas Eve flight to visit all the children around the world.

'Ho Ho Ho!' chuckles Santa, as he delivers presents to the first house and then returns to his sleigh. However, the sleeping child suddenly wakes up, and looking through her bedroom window she sees Santa and his reindeer about to leave. Running out of the house and into the snow to say hello, she discovers that things are not quite as they should be.

A graphic Christmas tale with a rather surprising twist.

MR MING AND THE MOONCAKE DRAGON

Kathy Creamer

An enchanting family story about a shopkeeper and his preparations for the mid-autumn festival. Colourful lanterns are an important part of the celebrations, as are the mooncakes which Mr Ming sells in his shop. Everyone agrees that Mr Ming's mooncakes are the most delicious they have ever tasted. They all want to know what the secret recipe is, but Mr Ming won't tell them or even let them peep inside his kitchen. This is because he has another secret, a secret even bigger than his marvellous mooncake recipe. What can it be?
